

MISSIONARY WORK AMONG CATHOLICS

Many Papers Read at Church Congress.

PAROCHIAL WORK DISCUSSED

Session Continues This Afternoon—Report on Progress in Alabama Gratifying to Delegates.

The second day's session of the missionary congress of the Catholic Church, now being held in the Catholic University in Brookland, began at 9 o'clock this morning in McMahon Hall, the Rt. Rev. P. J. Donahue presiding. Nearly one hundred delegates were present from many States of the Union. Papers dealing with the various phases of the missionary work among non-Catholics were read during the morning.

Parochial Work.

The first paper of the morning was written by the Rev. Anthony S. Zieben, spiritual director at Mt. Saint Mary's Seminary of the West, on "A Missionary in Parochial Work." It was read by Rev. Father Crane, of St. Louis, Mo.

The second paper was read by the Rev. Edmund Wisnietz, O. S. B., missionary in northern Alabama. Father Wisnietz told of his experiences in Alabama, a strictly non-Catholic country. His paper was supplemented by the veteran missionary, Father Xavier Sutton, who has also worked in Alabama.

Work in the East.

The next paper, by the Rev. W. C. Robinson, told of the work among the people of the East. His address was a masterly talk.

The last paper read was on "The Diocesan Missionary Bands," read by the Rev. William Gulman, superior of the New York Apostolate.

BECAME A CANDIDATE AFTER POLLS OPENED; WON

WATERTOWN, N. Y., June 12.—The first victory for municipal ownership in this city was won here when Virgil K. Kellogg, by 63 majority, defeated Hines for water commissioner. Mr. Kellogg has long agitated the subject of the city owning its own lighting plant, and it was on this issue alone that he announced his candidacy after the polls had been opened two hours. His opponent is a prominent engineer, and had been on the board for years.

THOUSANDS DROWNED BY FLOOD IN CHINA

VICTORIA, B. C., June 12.—Enormous loss of life has resulted from floods in the Honan (China) province, by reason of floods, according to a dispatch received here. The streams are out of their banks. An immense territory is under water and many villages have been wiped out. The loss of life, it is said, will go away up in the thousands. So far as heard from all the missionaries in the flooded section are safe.

LAWYER AND POET, WIT AND FRIEND OF ALL MANKIND

public schools, graduating thence in 1865. He took a course at the Spencerian Business College, from which he graduated in 1866, and then entered Columbian College, now George Washington University. He received the degree of bachelor of arts in 1873 and a year later the degree of bachelor of laws, from the law department of the same institution.

The composite character of his education had a determining influence upon his later activities, for he was a lawyer and business man combined all his life. He practiced with success in the departments, the District courts, the Court of Claims and the Supreme Court of the United States.

Writing a beautiful and very ornate hand, an accomplishment which had been fostered by his business college training and his own interest in chirography, Colonel Hay devoted himself to the comparative study of handwriting, and through a long attention and devotion to the subject qualified as an expert. He was recognized as the dean of the profession in America and had been called to testify, at celebrated trials, in many parts of the country.

Expert in Handwriting.

One of these was the trial of Charles Louis Tucker, for the murder of Mabel Page. A principal contention of the State in this case was that a note found after the girl's death and purporting to have been written by her, was really in the handwriting of Tucker. Colonel Hay was called as a witness on the part of the prosecution. It is a singular coincidence that three hours after Colonel Hay's death, Tucker was electrocuted for the murder, of which he had been found guilty.

on the stand, and he was by no means unconscious of the power of dramatic effect. He was something of an actor, too, and he brought out the points of his testimony with much force and vigor. He became the immediate sensation on the day of his appearance and the newspapers were filled with accounts of what he had to say and the manner of his saying.

As an after-dinner speaker, he was not less well known. At the dinner table his wit and eloquence and his knowledge of public men and public affairs assured him always a sympathetic and attentive hearing—a silence he could always transform into peals of laughter. He laid a protecting hand over his audience, in a figurative way, and took them into his own serene and sunny life. He enjoyed the sensation—and so did the others.

Member of Many Organizations.

In various fraternal organizations he took a deep interest, and bore a prominent part. He was past master of Penitentiary Lodge, No. 15, F. and A. M.; past eminent commander of Columbia of the Scottish Rite, of Almas Temple, past high priest of Mt. Vernon Chapter, No. 2, Royal Arch Masons; a member of the Scottish Rite, of Almas Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, of the Eastern Star, 2nd of other Masonic bodies.

He was past grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, serving as the highest officer of the order for three years. He was first elected in Louisville, in 1901. He was a member of Beacon Lodge of Odd Fellows; a member of the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia, and a member of the encampment and the uniform rank. He was a member of the Elks Club, and of the Phi Kappa Psi college fraternity. For twenty years he had been a member of the Gridiron Club.

Gifted Writer of Verse.

Colonel Hay had a remarkable facility in the production of graceful, popular verse. He was one of the poets in ordinary to the Gridiron Club, and many of the effective parodies on popular songs, with which the Gridironers are accustomed to entertain their guests, were the products of his pen. He wrote one only a few months ago that was so popular it had an immediate vogue over the country. Written originally for the January Gridiron dinner, it was sung with much effect by Colonel Hay himself at the dinner given by Speaker Cannon to the members of the club on March 17. It was called "High Up in the Speaker's Chair," and was sung to the air of "High Up in the Bamboo Tree." The chorus was as follows: "Although I'm up in the Speaker's chair, I'm lonely, I'm lonely; I like the boys so well, I love them only; They always were so good to me, They helped me on to victory, I wish they all could rule with me—High up in the Speaker's chair."

Gridiron Club Tribute

To Colonel Hay's Worth

The Gridiron Club held a special meeting this afternoon in the offices of the Associated Press to take appropriate action on the death of their late colleague, Edwin B. Hay. There was a large attendance. President Richard Lee Pearm called the meeting to order. After stating the object of the gathering he appointed Messrs. Henry, Carson, and West a committee to draw suitable resolutions expressive of the club's feelings in the loss of their fellow-member. P. V. DeGraw was designated as the active pallbearer on the club, and the other pallbearers will be selected from the other organizations to which the deceased belonged. The club in its body will attend the funeral service at the church tomorrow afternoon, and the officers of the club will go to the cemetery. Music will be rendered by the "Gridiron Quartet." Floral tributes were sent by the club to be placed on the casket.

The following is the tribute ordered placed upon the records of the club: "For more than seventeen years Edwin Barrett Hay was connected with the Gridiron Club. During this long period he not only endeared himself to his fellow-members by his unfailing urbanity of temper, his genial good-fellowship, and the splendid traits of his unblemished character, but by the display of his rare talents contributed in unusual degree to the enjoyment of those who were present at the entertainments of the club. He was a loyal and sincere, an unselfish and devoted friend; and in placing upon the records of the club this tribute to his worth, we feel that our indebtedness to him will be supplemented in the future by an undying memory of the qualities which we learned to love and respect in him during the long period of our association."
